Statement of Service Performance

Introduction

On an annual basis, the Minister for Māori Development and Minister for Whānau Ora are required, under the Public Finance Act 1989, to report on a specific number of non-departmental appropriations.

This report, for the 2017/18 financial year, attempts to present a fuller explanation of the breadth of the Māori Development investment portfolio and how it advances the Government's aspirations for whānau, hapū and iwi.

Presented thematically, it covers in detail the areas of investment managed by Te Puni Kōkiri. Detailed lists of expenditure covering recipient entities, purpose of funding and amounts are presented – setting a new standard for transparency around the Māori Development investment portfolio.

The report does not identify the names of individual whānau due to legal privacy reasons. This approach is consistent with the Official Information Act practice.

The report provides a complete picture of the Māori Development portfolio funding and speaks to te reo Māori, broadcasting, land and tourism interests managed by a range of entities. In each case, the relevant entities have their own specific financial and performance reporting which readers can refer to where more detailed information is required.

Minister for Māori Development Foreword

Kei ngā iho pūmanawa o te motu, tēnā koutou!

Ka rere ngā whakaaro ki ngā karamata o te rangi me te inoi kia tau mai ai he parepare, he whakaruruhau, hei ahuru mōwai mō tātou te tangata i tēnei ao kikokiko nei.

E te kura o te ahi, te tautīnei i ngā muramura o te kāhui ariki, kei te Kiingi Tūheitia, paimārire ki a koutou katoa.

Kei ngā mate huhua, kua whai i te ia o te tai hekenga tangata ki te pō, haere, haere, haere atu rā koutou.

He muka tangata i motuhia, he muka tangata kua herea anō.

Kāti. Kei ngā ringa tōhau nui o te motu nei, paimārire ki a tātou katoa!

We seek to expand opportunities for whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori to share in social and economic prosperity, connect whānau to opportunities that create growth and enhance the resilience of whānau. This approach will ensure the right combination of initiatives and government sector support for whanau or community-led priorities that tackle intergenerational challenges. From the ground up or taking a ‘flax roots’ approach – it’s about empowering communities to lead their own solutions.

The key ingredients in taking a regional approach will ensure:

- engagement in all levels of decision making;
- equitable access to education, development, employment, business and investment opportunities;
- Māori are provided with tools to realise and capitalise on these opportunities; and
- regulatory barriers are cleared away and Māori can access good services.

We know that Māori language, culture, identity and mātauranga needs to be valued and incorporated into the development of government policy from the outset. This is a strengths based approach that captures the unique contribution that Māori continue to strive towards in their development aspirations. The challenge for this government is to do that alongside our people to ensure that systems work for us all.

Improving wellbeing outcomes for Māori requires a strong emphasis on whānau and community-led strategies that are partnered by a joined up government sector. To achieve this will require Te Puni Kōkiri to:

- a) strengthen their interface with whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori to enable greater innovation and support for development aspirations; and
- b) facilitate and foster collaboration across the government sector to achieve greater prosperity and wellbeing outcomes.

Since we came into office much work has been done and there is much more work for us to do. The collaborative approach I seek, means we have to do things differently.

Hon Nanaia Mahuta

8 Minister for Whānau Ora Foreword

Tēnei te whakahau nei i te whakarua kākā, i ngā manu whititua kia kōkiri ngātahi ai a whakaaro, a hinengaro ki te wāhi ngaro, kia tau iho rā ōna manaakitanga ki runga ki tēnā, ki tēnā o tātou.

E koko e te huatau o aroha ki ngā mate huhua o te wā kua taka i roto i ngā rā, ngā wiki me ngā marama kua taha atu. Haere rā koutou! Haere ki tērā o ngā wharepuni e kore e kī, e kore e kōpā te noho. Hoatu koutou ki te poho o Rehua okioki ai, mō tai ahiahi koutou whāia atu ai.

Ngā tauārai o te pō, tītoko ko te ao mārama e!

Kei ngā ihu oneone, kei ngā taituarā o ngā pā harakeke puta noa i te motu, tēnei ka mihi.

Whānau living their best life. To me, that's what Whānau Ora is.

In many ways, Whānau Ora is just the name we have given to an approach that has long been part of the way we, as Māori, look after and support one another. In naming and transferring it into a government setting we have perhaps diluted its potency. But I remain positively resolute when I say that this is a good problem to have.

It's a privilege to be the Minister for Whānau Ora responsible for leading this developing movement. A movement so grounded in our Māori systems of knowledge and thinking that it challenges the way we are used to doing things in the public sector.

My greatest challenge in this role is ensuring my Ministerial colleagues receive a transformation narrative that proves to them that Whānau Ora makes a difference in whānau lives.

Because as I go around the country meeting with our Whānau Ora workforce, I hear how difficult it is to create seamless interaction with whānau across agencies. We need our agencies to fully commit to working with whānau and all that that entails.

Whānau Ora is the tool of aspiration that we all know it to be, but as long as we continue to use it as a method for managing crisis, that's all it will ever be.

This report will go some way to unpacking the benefits and positive outcomes that have been achieved with many whānau as a result of Whānau Ora.

For instance, over 13,500 whānau have been supported through Whānau Ora this year – but there are many more whānau who would benefit from a coordinated Whānau Ora support system to help them identify and embark on their own development journeys.

I expect the Whānau Ora Review will provide further insight into how we might better capture other agencies into the enterprise of Whānau Ora, and I look forward to being briefed further by the independent panel.

I would like to acknowledge everyone who has contributed to the kaupapa of Whānau Ora, the partners, collectives, entities and providers, and the kaimahi and communities working together throughout Aotearoa.

Hon Peeni Henare
Minister for Whānau Ora
Minita Whānau Ora

Where do the Māori Development portfolio funds go?

Total non-departmental funding allocation for 2017/18 was $253.108 million.¹

Whānau and Rangatahi ($13.569 m)

Enabling whānau to thrive and promoting rangatahi development and leadership

This funding supports whānau-centred development aimed at creating sustainable improvements in the lives and wellbeing of whānau and their rangatahi.

This is achieved through initiatives focusing on health and wellbeing, as well as family violence prevention. Rangatahi initiatives span employment pathways, training and cadetships, and suicide prevention. There is also a specific focus on Māori in education, employment or training.

Whānau Ora Commissioning ($71.821 m)

Empowering whānau to achieve their aspirations

Whānau development is supported through an approach that strengthens whānau to achieve their aspirations. Through a devolved management model, Te Minita Whānau Ora sets the overall direction with the Commissioning Agencies deciding how best to achieve the desired outcomes.

The following outcomes guide the innovations of the Commissioning Agencies: self-managing and empowered leaders; leading healthy lifestyles; participating fully in society; participating confidently in Te Ao Māori; economically secure and involved in wealth creation; cohesive, resilient and nurturing; and responsible stewards of their natural and living environments.

Mātauranga – Te Reo Māori / Broadcasting ($104.127 m)

Empowering whānau to nurture te reo and tikanga Māori

This funding supports Māori language, culture and identity, with a specific focus on the use of te reo Māori.

This encompasses support for: te reo Māori and broadcasting entities; community-focused events such as Matariki, kapa haka, māra kai, wānanga; and resources for the Oranga Marae partnership project with the Department of Internal Affairs.

This area also includes Ministerial oversight of statutory bodies and Crown Entities, specifically, Te Māngai Pāho, Māori Television Service, Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori and Te Mātāwai.

Kāinga – Māori Housing Network ($21.060 m)

Improving homes and communities

This funding supports whānau to live in safe, secure and healthy homes. Kāinga goals support wider whānau aspirations, such as improving the health of tamariki, increasing levels of skills and education, establishing a secure economic base and contributing to healthy communities.

This is achieved through partnering with Māori to: support affordable whānau housing through papakāinga and other activities; improving the quality of whānau housing; responding to whānau housing aspirations; and building whānau capability.

Pakihi – Economic Development
($14.124m)

A focus on new and sustainable ways to lift whānau, hapū and iwi Māori prosperity

This funding supports whānau, entrepreneurs and businesses to grow a more productive, sustainable and innovative Māori economy, that delivers prosperity for Māori and opportunities for rangatahi.

This is achieved through investments to enable Māori to investigate business options, share knowledge, build capability and develop an international presence through exports.

This area includes Ministerial oversight of support to New Zealand Māori Tourism which promotes and develops Māori tourism capability and opportunities, as well as support for Māori organisations such as the Māori Women’s Development Inc.

Whenua – Māori Land
($14.575m)

Enabling Māori land owners to engage with and realise aspirations for their whenua

This funding supports land owner aspirations to connect actively with their whenua for cultural, social and sustainable economic advancement.

This is achieved through support for researching land use options, as well as investments in agriculture, horticulture, apiculture, forestry and energy land use.

This area includes Ministerial oversight of the Māori Trustee which administers and grows Māori land assets.

Tūhonohono – Community Support and Commitments ($13.833 m)

Facilitating Crown-Māori relationships

This funding includes ongoing support for specific Māori organisations; meeting Crown’s commitments; and Treaty-related obligations.

Whānau and Rangatahi

Enabling whānau to thrive and promoting rangatahi development and leadership

This funding supports whānau-centred development aimed at creating sustainable improvements in the lives and wellbeing of whānau and their rangatahi.

This is achieved through a range of community-led initiatives focusing principally on whānau health and wellbeing. Rangatahi initiatives span employment pathways, training and cadetships, and suicide prevention. There is also a specific focus on Māori in education, employment or training.

Rangatiratanga Grant (Takoha Rangatiratanga)

$480,000

Focus

Supported one-off financial assistance to individuals and organisations for activities and initiatives that promote the social, economic and cultural advancement of Māori.

Highlights

Supported 128 grants in the area of whānau wellbeing, te ao Māori, and skills, learning and education, usually under the value of $10,000. This provided support for initiatives and activities that might otherwise not be accessible for the recipient.

Māori Health and Wellbeing (Hauora me te Oranga Māori)

Hauora me te Oranga Māori is a multi-category appropriation focused on supporting overall community-based wellbeing outcomes for Māori. The appropriation has three key areas – improving rangatahi wellbeing, building whānau-centred strengths-based responses to family violence and supporting community-based Māori sport and cultural activities with a wellbeing focus.

Matika – Moving the Māori Nation:

(Hiki i te ao Māori – Tautoko Tikanga me te Hākinakina Māori)

Matika invests in projects that focus on Māori holistic approaches to wellbeing, encompassing the three core aspects of tinana (physical wellbeing), hinengaro (emotional wellbeing) and wairua (spiritual wellbeing) through Māori mediums.

The fund supports whānau-led development activities based on whānau aspirations and strengths. It seeks to draw on community skills and knowledge that will grow and sustain an increased sense of cultural identity and whakapapa, and encourage connection with te ao Māori to build whānau resilience. This fund is a building block for strengthening Māori communities and contributes to the Māori development approach Te Ohu Whanake.

Matika also funds programme development and implementation of initiatives to support whakapakari tinana, with a focus on ongoing interaction through Māori traditional sports and games.

During 2017/18, Te Puni Kōriki provided funding to support organisations and whānau initiatives that encourage whakapakari tinana and create opportunities for whānau to pursue wider Whānau Ora outcomes. This included $2 million which was managed through the Whānau Ora Commissioning Agencies.

In 2017/18, funding support included a range of initiatives:

- Tu Kaha, a mobile classroom truck with teaching staff delivering an educational Values Programme to years 5-9 students of low-decile schools. The Values Programme is designed to connect and reconnect rangatahi Māori with their whakapapa, language, culture and identity to build resilience and self-belief. Te Puni Kōriki is co-funding this initiative from the Matika – Moving the Māori Nation and Rangatahi Suicide Prevention Funds;
- Pātea Māori Cultural Theatre Trust encouraged whānau, aged from preschool to 77 years, to connect to their own whakapapa and Māoritanga across local marae within south Taranaki. The project supported up to 60 whānau through monthly wānanga. The wānanga also provided whānau with the opportunity to connect with their own marae and the history of the area through mōteatea and waiata; and
- Horouta Waka Hoe, in the Tairāwhiti region brought together 18 high-performing teams and their whānau. It promoted wellbeing through a kaupapa Māori lens, including nutrition, training and wānanga activities – supporting healthy living, cultural connectedness and eco-living.

Growing confident and healthy whānau and rangatahi through waka ama

Eighteen high-performing teams of Māori athletes and whānau from Tairāwhiti joined together for a six-week waka ama programme to support healthy living, cultural connectedness and eco-living.

The initiative brought together 180 individuals and their whānau (who actively support the individuals and teams). It promoted wellbeing through a kaupapa Māori lens, including nutrition, training and wānanga activities.

In order to rally this kind of effort, whānau are modelling leadership, healthy lifestyles and their own principles of kaitiakitanga based on Te Mana o Te Wai, through each generation of most of the participating whānau. Rangatahi and pakeke teams participate in this code, demonstrating true whānau participation and commitment.

The waka ama programme included a wānanga for participants with lessons from a tikanga Māori perspective including karakia, manaakitanga and tautoko of their fellow paddlers on the waka. Participants were also informed about the history and wāhi tapu on the Waiapaoa and Te Arai rivers. Kōrero covered traditional leadership, including learning about historical leaders in Māoridom and in Tūranganui-a-Kiwa, and leadership today – incorporating self-worth, values, skills and expectations of both self and the team/rōpū.

Te reo Māori is a core component of the waka ama teams, building on cultural pride and identity.

Rangatahi Māori Suicide Prevention Fund (Ārai Whakamomori Rangatahi Māori)

The fund supports a range of community initiatives contributing to improving rangatahi wellbeing and preventing rangatahi Māori suicide. Initiatives aim to impart knowledge, experiences and skills to rangatahi Māori (10 to 24 years) to help them build resilience, connectedness, confidence and leadership ability in a te ao Māori setting.

The focus is on building rangatahi wellbeing by improving their capacity to resist risk factors² and enhancing the protective factors in their lives. Protective factors make suicidal behaviour less likely and include having a secure cultural identity, access to support and help, family and community support or connectedness, an ability to deal with life's difficulties and hopefulness.

Initiatives incorporate a tikanga and kaupapa Māori approach (that is, elements of cultural pride, te reo Māori, identity and mātauranga) delivered in Māori community development settings. They also promote strong youth development practice by putting rangatahi at the centre and involving them in key aspects of the initiative's design, implementation and delivery.

In 2017/18 a total of $1.5 million of funding support was invested in a range of initiatives including:

- delivery of two Au.E! hui in Lower Hutt and Hastings to 240 rangatahi. These are rangatahi-led and focus on confidence-building and resilience, as well as nurturing relationships. Rangatahi are exposed to positive role models and leadership, lifting their sights for their future aspirations;
- support for a rangatahi-centric youth hub in Kaitiāia promoting youth spirit, pride and community engagement. Rangatahi who previously showed signs of suicidal ideation and depression have reported they felt more engaged and connected to the rangatahi community, and their confidence has increased; and
- support for the Skylight Trust, a national not-for-profit, to develop online web resources using the voices of takatāpui and rangatahi, telling their stories about growing up and how they have worked through issues around sexuality, identity and wellbeing. The resources are available on Skylight's resilience hub, which is a way for people to connect with both online and face-to-face support to find ways to get the right help at the right time, in the right way.

² Risk factors for suicide include experiencing stressful life events, not having a sense of one's culture or identity (including sexuality and gender identity), exposure to violence, trauma or abuse, mental health issues, poor physical health, a lack of social support, being shamed, hopelessness, and alcohol and drug misuse.

Whānau-centred Family Violence Interventions

(He Tikanga ā-Whānau mō te Whakakore Tūkino)

The Whānau-centred Family Violence Interventions initiative is trialling a new approach, building whānau-centred strengths-based responses to violence. Communities are taking the lead to develop solutions tailor-made for the communities they serve. This new approach will allow us to better understand how best to support whānau affected by violence, and to use the strengths of whānau and communities as key levers for positive change.

During 2017/18, we supported pilot initiatives in Christchurch, Waikato and the Hutt Valley, through a co-design process. This shift to empowering providers and whānau to lead the design process has been extremely positive, and work is progressing rapidly.

Progress is being made across all of the pilot regions, with Waikato and Hutt Valley providers in the process of commencing their delivery models. Delivery of the Christchurch pilot is expected to begin in the 2018/19 year. The co-design processes have delivered a number of learnings, including the need to move at the pace set by the providers and whānau in each rohe.

The outcome sought from these pilots is the establishment and/or restoration of healthy, safe, and functional whānau relationships for whānau affected by family violence. Te Puni Kōkiri is seeking to test the adoption of whānau-centred co-design and the strengths-based solutions approach as potential tools for wider use.

Social enterprise-based development, skills, learning and leadership – Māori Development Fund (Tahua Whanaketanga Māori)

Te Tahua Whanaketanga Māori (the Fund) supports whānau, hapū and iwi to identify and achieve their aspirations through improving social, cultural and economic outcomes. Investment is targeted at achieving a variety of outcomes that, together, support whānau to thrive.

The Fund is divided into three key areas:

- building capacity for social enterprise-based development, skills, learning and leadership, which is the focus of this section;
- supporting te ao Māori, whanaungatanga and marae-based wānanga; and
- partnerships spanning regional economic development.

The broad focus allows investment to be targeted across a wide variety of outcomes and provides discretion for new and emerging areas of focus. Within the first of these areas (social enterprise-based development, skills, learning and leadership) there is a strong focus on outcomes for whānau and rangatahi. Specific allocations within the Fund that target whānau and rangatahi outcomes are:

- employment opportunities through the Cadetships initiative; and
- support for taiohi Māori to obtain essential documents to participate fully in society and improve employment opportunities through the Passport to Life (Taiohi Ararau) programme.

During 2017/18, this part of the Fund supported more than 100 projects and initiatives across the country. This investment can be broadly grouped into the following areas:

Social Enterprise Based Initiatives

Education and Training

education and training programmes, including support for over 350 people through their driver's licence training and mentoring

Employment

initiatives to support people to obtain and remain in employment, including supporting 352 cadets and pastoral care services

Social and Community Outcomes

projects and initiatives to provide wrap-around and whānau-centred support for whānau to achieve their aspirations

Capability Building

initiatives supported to build capability, including disaster preparedness for Marae

Building capacity for social enterprise-based development, skills and learning

The Fund supports a range of initiatives to help whānau gain the skills, knowledge and confidence needed to achieve their aspirations and build strong communities. This includes investment in employment, education and training support, leadership and capability building, as well as initiatives to improve social outcomes for communities. This focus area contributes to wider priorities focusing on whānau, mātauranga and pakihi.

Education and Training

The Passport to Life programme (Taiohi Ararau), is supported by the Fund, and contributes to He Poutama Rangatahi (Government's Youth Employment Pathways Strategy). It promotes Māori youth (15 to 24 years) to be in education, employment or training.

Taiohi are supported with mentoring and pastoral care to obtain essential documents such as a birth certificate, IRD number, bank account and driver's licence to increase eligibility and access to employment and educational pathways. The programme is being trialled in Te Tai Tokerau, in partnership with four Māori providers.

The trial project commenced in December 2017 and is on track to meet its objective of supporting 40 taiohi to obtain their essential documents. At the end of May 2018, 39 taiohi had either obtained, or were in the process of obtaining essential documents.

In addition, the Fund supported rangatahi Māori to expand their horizons and rise above and beyond expectations in relation to STEM subjects (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics). This includes funding provided to the Pūhoro Stem Academy, which supports 430 rangatahi in the Manawatū and Bay of Plenty studying STEM subjects.

The programme provides a range of tutorials, hands-on wānanga and events that introduce rangatahi to a wide range of career options. Pūhoro students are exceeding the national pass rates for core science, physics, chemistry and biology external achievement standards.

Investing in rangatahi – investing into our future

‘Pūhoro has given me the greatest gift – they’ve helped me find my passion, and that’s for the environment. I honestly can’t see myself doing anything else,’ said Pūhoro STEM Academy student, Meschka Seifritz, a key speaker at the Ka Hao te Rangatahi – STEM Futures Symposium.

‘Pūhoro held my hand throughout NCEA Levels One, Two and Three. I didn’t even think I was smart enough for science before Pūhoro, but last year I passed a lot more exams than I thought I would, or could.’ Not only did Pūhoro provide her with academic support, they have invested in her future through connecting her with her passion.

Launched in 2016, the Pūhoro STEM Academy supports rangatahi in STEM subjects (science, technology, engineering and mathematics). The programme works directly with secondary school students and their whānau and was created in response to the low engagement of Māori students in STEM subjects.

Meschka was one of these disengaged Māori who felt out of place in a STEM environment. ‘Being one of three Māori in the class is hard. None of my friends take STEM subjects. It’s not easy.’

‘On the first day we heard from the adults, who had done great mahi for the environment they knew so much. It made me think.’ This led Meschka to making a statement that has had extensive impact on Our Land and Water and their direction going forward.

‘Rangatahi make up 25 per cent of our population, but 100 per cent of our future. If we teach every age group to respect their land, to give back to Mother Nature, if they taught us these things they would become instilled in our culture.’

The vision of the Pūhoro STEM Academy is to ‘advance Māori leadership and capability’. To advance Māori leadership is to invest in the lives of our future leaders – rangatahi Māori. Meschka is one of these many future Māori leaders. She has already had an influence amongst current leaders and is trailblazing a pathway for her whānau and peers.

Programmes like the Pūhoro STEM Academy are investing into our rangatahi, and therefore, into our future. Te Puni Kōkiri are proud supporters of the Pūhoro STEM Academy and the outcomes it has produced for rangatahi throughout Aotearoa.

Employment

During 2017/18, the Cadetships initiative supported 352 cadets to improve their work-related skills through structured training, development and mentoring. Changes to the initiative during the year provided more flexibility for employers, making it easier for small to medium businesses to employ cadets. As a result the number of employers participating increased to 16, more than double that of the previous year.

Innovative new programmes were also introduced through the Cadetships initiative. This includes a pilot programme at Downer (Te Whanake ki te Ora) to support cadet participants to be drug-free, and a new cadetships programme at the world-leading New Zealand Mānuka Group in the Bay of Plenty.

To take advantage of the strong projected employment growth in software development, this year Te Puni Kōkiri supported three cadets with Code Avengers, a 50 per cent Māori-owned company that provides coding education and programmes in boot camps and online. Cadets help design the material and deliver the courses. Two cadets have been offered ongoing employment and an increased salary. The third cadet is now studying while working at Code Avengers part-time.

Developing Māori leaders in an emerging market on their own whenua

Nine cadets are being trained in how to grow and harvest mānuka oil through the New Zealand Mānuka Group (NZMG) cadetship programme.

NZMG is a medium-sized Whakatāne-based primary industry business operating in partnership with Māori land owners in the Bay of Plenty to produce mānuka oil straight from mānuka trees being grown on Māori owned land.

Each cadet is a trustee of the Māori land being utilised to grow the mānuka trees that will be processed to produce the valuable mānuka oil which is sold all over the world.

‘We wanted to make sure cadets came from local whānau,’ said Jerome Brosnahan, Chief Operation Officer, NZMG.

The Bay of Plenty has the second highest unemployment rate in New Zealand at 7.6 per cent (Household Labourforce Survey, March 2017). The programme provides an employment opportunity but cadets are receiving much more.

NZMG removed some barriers being faced by cadets, including providing transport to work and supplying costly needed equipment. Cadets receive mentoring support and are studying towards an apiculture or horticulture NZQA qualification.

Cadets are being exposed to the science inputs of the business and visiting other sites to gain a wider understanding of how their part fits within the bigger picture.

‘We are investing in our cadets to achieve long-term outcomes,’ explains Dona Neithammer, HR Manager NZMG.

‘If, at the end of the cadetships programme, permanent employment isn’t possible, cadets will leave with highly desirable skills transferable to other primary industry roles.’

Capability building

A key focus for the Fund during 2017/18, was building the capability of whānau, hapū and iwi, through investing in governance training and other support to Māori entities, as well as developing governance and leadership pathways for rangatahi. Building capability and capacity supports whānau, hapū and iwi to realise their aspirations, and actively participate in social, economic and environmental, and regional and community level planning and delivery. This included:

- tailored governance learning and development tools to support 12 pre- and post-Settlement governance entities³, and support through the BetterBoard governance service to a further 38 entities;
- local initiatives to develop future leaders so hapū and marae boards are effective into the future – for example, Te Ātiawa iwi leadership development programme; and
- development programmes such as the ‘Ka Eke Poutama’ Programme, which builds rangatahi capability and leadership in governance. This included support for 40 rangatahi to complete the course⁴ in 2018.

Improving social outcomes for communities

The Fund also supports initiatives to help whānau achieve their aspirations and address the issues they face. During 2017/18 this included:

- a partnership with Te Rūnanga o Ngāti Ruanui Trust to develop the old Pātea Primary School site as a community hub. This will deliver education and digital skills programmes, support for small business start-ups, and a community-driven approach to issues around suicide and housing development;
- refreshing the Ruapehu Whānau Transformation Project – a five-year action plan to address a range of social, economic and whānau development outcomes, co-designed with local communities; and
- supporting the Ngā Tāne Kāinga Kore project, which helps homeless Māori men in Christchurch to access housing, health, psychosocial and advocacy services. This is delivered by St. Paul’s Trinity Pacific Presbyterian Church.

3 The package was delivered by the Institute of Directors to support the entities in their responsibility for negotiating and safeguarding Treaty Settlement assets on behalf of their iwi.

4 The programme supports succession planning for Māori trusts, marae and iwi organisations through education programmes, mentoring and participation in real-life governance processes for rangatahi.

Māori Participation (Whaiwāhitanga Māori)

The electoral participation programme aims to increase awareness of and the levels of participation by Māori in the electoral process. Voting statistics show a consistently lower level of Māori voter enrolment and participation in general and local body elections. The number of Māori who choose to be on the Māori Electoral Roll is also low. Rangatahi Māori have the lowest participation of all groups.

Voting and having a say on matters affecting the everyday lives of whānau, hapū, and iwi Māori and our country are important aspects of the quality of the Crown-Māori relationship.

Pre-election the Electoral Participation Programme focused on increasing the number of rangatahi Māori voting in the September 2017 general election.

The #FFS Vote social media campaign was aimed at rangatahi Māori and used Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and Snapchat as well as iwi radio stations at community events to get people enrolled. An increase in voter numbers suggests the campaign was successful, with the number of rangatahi Māori voting in the 2017 General Election increasing from 40,132 in 2014 to 45,503 in 2017⁶.

Post-election the programme's focus shifted to the Māori Electoral Option campaign (commenced in April 2018). This included a social media campaign to raise awareness about the Māori Electoral Option amongst rangatahi Māori.

Rangatiratanga Grants

The Rangatiratanga Grants provide one-off financial assistance to individuals and organisations to support activities and initiatives that promote the social, economic and cultural advancement of Māori.

During 2017/18, 127 grants were made to support whānau wellbeing, te ao Māori, and skills, learning and education. These grants are generally low value, with 106 being $5,000 or less, and they provide support for initiatives and activities that might otherwise not be accessible for the recipient.

Activities supported include:

- Helping individuals attend leadership summits/wānanga;
- Supporting rangatahi with costs associated with student tours of sites of significance for the 28th Māori Battalion;
- Support for organisations providing support for homeless individuals and whānau with a contribution towards equipment (ovens, dishwashing liquid, hand sanitizer); and
- Support for kaumātua, kuia, tamariki and rangatahi to practise and perform kapa haka.

Whānau Ora Commissioning

Empowering whānau to achieve their aspirations

Whānau development is supported through an approach that strengthens whānau to achieve their aspirations. Through a devolved management model te Minita Whānau Ora sets the overall direction with the Commissioning Agencies deciding how best to achieve the desired outcomes.

Whānau Ora aims to empower whānau to achieve their aspirations by building on their strengths and working towards improvements in areas such as housing, employment, health and education.

To understand how well Whānau Ora is operating, in 2017 te Minita Whānau Ora announced a review of the Whānau Ora delivery model. The review will focus on: ensuring Whānau Ora is accountable and transparent in its delivery; assessing the capability of the approach in meeting the needs of those it was initially set up to help; and examining the applicability of a whānau-centred approach across the government social sector to effect sustainable, beneficial change for whānau. The recommendations from the review will help inform future government policy on whānau development.

Highlights	Three non-government Commissioning Agencies are contracted to deliver services and support that match the needs of whānau within each of the Commissioning Agencies respective communities. Te Pou Matakana supports whānau in Te Ika-a-Māui (North Island) and is based in Auckland; Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu supports whānau in Te Waipounamu (South Island) and is based in Christchurch; and Pasifika Futures supports Pacific families across Aotearoa, New Zealand and is based in Auckland.

Whakamahi i ngā Huanga a Whānau Ora (Commissioning Whānau Ora outcomes)

Whānau Ora, established in 2009, takes a whānau-centred approach to the delivery of support and services to whānau in Aotearoa New Zealand. In 2017/18 Whānau Ora Commissioning was supported through a specific budget allocation of $71.821 million, plus an additional $2 million from Matika – Moving the Māori Nation Fund⁷.

Delivery Model

The current delivery model of Whānau Ora involves the contracting of three non-government Commissioning Agencies to deliver services and support that match the needs of whānau within each Commissioning Agency's respective communities:

- Te Pou Matakana – supports whānau in Te Ika-a-Māui (North Island);
- Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu - supports whānau in Te Waipounamu (South Island); and
- Pasifika Futures - supports Pacific families across Aotearoa.

Although Whānau Ora is grounded in concepts of te ao Māori, it is available for non-Māori whānau across New Zealand, to build on their strengths and create a better future for themselves. Kaiārahi (Navigators) play a major role in Whānau Ora. Kaiārahi have the mana, mātauranga and manaakitanga needed to relate to whānau and individuals with complex needs, and help them identify and access suitable services.

The direction for each of the Commissioning Agencies is set by te Minita Whānau Ora and under this devolved model, the Commissioning Agencies are responsible for the achievement of outcomes rather than the completion of particular activities.

Commissioning Agencies document their activities and associated outcomes in their annual investment plans. These plans are agreed with Te Puni Kōkiri, who ensures that they contribute to the achievement of the following overarching Whānau Ora outcome goals:

- whānau are self-managing;
- whānau are living healthy lifestyles;
- whānau are participating confidently in society;
- whānau are confident in their language and culture;
- whānau are economically secure and wealth creating;
- whānau are cohesive, resilient and nurturing; and
- whānau are responsible stewards of their homes and natural environments.

⁷ Matika – Moving the Māori Nation Fund is covered separately in the Whānau and Rangatahi section.

Commissioning Agencies contributing to the overarching whānau goals is documented in the table below.

8 Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu focus on all seven of the Whānau Ora Outcomes. Te Pou Matakana are determining how outcome seven can fit within their Outcomes Framework and Pasifika Futures does not currently have a specific focus on outcomes four, six and seven of the Whānau Ora Outcomes Framework.

9 Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu refer to their outcome domains as 'Pou'.

Commissioning Agency achievements

Commissioning Agencies reported that for the year ended 30 June 2018, more than 13,500 whānau were registered and receiving support through their initiatives. Their reporting shows that whānau were achieving measurable improvements in their priority outcome areas. Details of key Commissioning Agency achievements are covered below.

Te Pou Matakana

Te Pou Matakana supports whānau to identify their aspirations, develop plans and access the required resources to achieve their goals. Te Pou Matakana does this through a combination of:

- Grants-based funding (Whānau Direct) to meet the immediate needs of whānau;
- Integrated service provision focusing on health, education, housing, financial literacy, employment and whānau relationship outcomes (Collective Impact); and
- Kaiārahi (Navigator) support for whānau and families.

The following case studies are examples of a Navigator services provided by Te Pou Matakana, and the impact these services have had on whānau. The names used in these case studies have been changed, to protect whānau privacy.

Financial hardship – Kaiārahi (Navigator) provide practical support

Linda, a single mum with five tamariki to care for and a partner in jail, sought urgent assistance from her local Whānau Ora partner.

The whānau assessment found that she did not have a vehicle, was without a driver's licence because of eyesight problems, she was living in financial hardship and was managing her children on her own. Linda also said that her children's behaviour was escalating to the point where she was finding them difficult to manage.

A Kaiārahi (Navigator) immediately registered the children in the tuākana/tēina programme and a special kids club run by the Whānau Ora partner that the tamariki instantly loved. Linda received prescription glasses which enabled her to obtain her restricted licence. She purchased a vehicle and has set up a direct debit to the mechanic every week to build credit for when she needs her vehicle serviced.

The whānau are in a positive space and the Kaiārahi continues to work with them to resolve a number of other complex issues they are facing.

Restoring broken lives

Rick is a young Māori man who appeared vulnerable and timid when he first approached a Whānau Ora partner. He saw a Kaiārahi who worked with him to complete an assessment and plan.

The young man talked about his uncle who had been a father figure to him since his early years, but who had been murdered. Rick explained that his uncle's death had had a major impact on his life and that he had turned to alcohol and drugs. Over time, he also shared that during his childhood he had witnessed family violence that caused his Mum to become depressed and this also had a negative effect on him.

The Kaiārahi referred him to the local rangatahi programme where he was able to engage in a course that helped him to address drug and alcohol issues, and he had anger management and trauma counselling. After the course Rick identified IT as an area he had always wanted to learn more. The Kaiārahi facilitated his enrolment in the IT course which Rick has gone on to complete.

Rick has also been able to move forward and re-connect with his whānau, in particular his mother and grandmother. He has recently found part-time work and continues to visit his mother regularly.

Contribution to Whānau Ora Outcomes

During 2017/18 Te Pou Matakana engaged with a total of 7,068 whānau (excluding Whānau Direct), 1,666 assisted through the provision of wrap around service support, and 5,402 assisted through navigator support for whānau. Additionally, 3,256 whānau were supported by grants to meet immediate needs (Whānau Direct). Some of the outcomes achieved by Te Pou Matakana are documented in the following tables:

Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu

Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu invests in whānau-driven, local-level initiatives that support priorities such as healthy lifestyles, cultural connectedness, community participation, and coping with trauma and improving educational outcomes. Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu does this through a combination of:

- Grant-based funding for new whānau-centred initiatives (Commissioning Pipeline); and
- Whānau Enhancement (navigator) services that provide coaching and access to professional advisors to build whānau leadership and sustainable progress.

Kaiārahi (Navigators) play a major role in Whānau Ora. They work closely with whānau to identify their specific needs and aspirations and then help them identify services, providers or opportunities that will support the needs and aspirations of whānau.

The following case studies are examples of Navigator services provided by Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu, and the impact these services have had on whānau. The names used in these case studies have been changed, to protect whānau privacy.

New community, fresh start – whānau thrive

‘There are people now who are prepared to be on my side. No one has ever backed me before and it is overwhelming,’ says Mere.

Mere is a single mum with five tamariki who were living in an unsafe environment. She also had criminal charges pending. The whānau lived a very transient life which meant the two oldest primary-aged children had attended eight schools and the youngest were all behind in their immunisations and Plunket visits.

For their safety the whānau were moved to the South Island, from the North Island, to where they had some temporary accommodation. They arrived in a small town with one suitcase of belongings and moved into a sleep-out which was not insulated.

Mere was referred to a Kaiārahi to help her cope with her immediate challenges. The challenges included finding a suitable home, catching up with health appointments and general support to connect her into a new community.

With the support of a Kaiārahi, this whānau were able to move into a fully furnished four bedroom home with a fireplace for heating. The two oldest children were enrolled in school, the four-year-old started at kindergarten. The four eldest children were able to have the dental treatment that they required. The three youngest had their first immunisations. Mere was able to connect with Plunket and ensure her visits were up to date and they were able to obtain access to car seats, a twin pram, a cot and a pēpi pod to ensure child safety.

Both Mere and her tamariki are now in a much better position to thrive.

On the path to realising his goals

Tari has been in and out of the justice system for the last ten years, spending three full years in prison. He recently sought support from a Kaiārahi provided by Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu, to develop a plan to help him to achieve his goals: to live an alcohol- and drug-free life, to improve his communication skills with his whānau, to find employment, and to break his connections with gangs.

Tari faced some challenges and setbacks in achieving his plan. He broke his parole and was recalled to prison for 29 days. Tari reached out to a Kaiārahi who attended his parole hearing. The Parole Board viewed it as a positive development that Tari was being supported by a Kaiārahi.

Tari is making good progress towards realising his goals. He completed a Stopping Violence course, and a drug and alcohol course, and is working on his parenting skills with support from his Kaiārahi. From his own assessment, Tari is making progress in accepting responsibility and being accountable for his actions.

With the support of his Kaiārahi Tari updated his CV and has now found a part-time role with a local employer. He is no longer affiliated with gangs.

Contribution to Whānau Ora Outcomes

During the 2017/18 year Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu engaged with a total of 1,366 whānau. 303 were supported by grants for new whānau-based initiatives and 1,063 were assisted through navigator support for whānau and families.

Pasifika Futures

Pasifika Futures invests in initiatives that support Pacific families to achieve outcomes in areas like economic prosperity, education, health and cultural participation. Pasifika Futures does this through a combination of:

- Navigational services (Core Commissioning) that support families to identify their aspirations, determine their priorities and choose their own pathway to achieving their goals;
- Targeted initiatives (Innovation) that enable families to improve their skills in the financial, educational, entrepreneurial and cultural domains; and
- Small Grants (Commissioning for Communities) for ethnic-specific community-based organisations, who leverage a largely volunteer workforce to support families.

The following case studies are examples of specific community-based initiatives, and their impact on the Pacific community. The names used in these case studies have been changed, to protect whānau privacy.

Pathway to increase income – ‘Designing a better future through fashion’

Ngaro, a young Samoan mother of three, was a stay-at-home Mum who had a dream of one day studying fashion and design. In the family’s initial assessment, her safety and that of her children was the immediate priority, a plan was implemented and a protection order was placed against her ex-partner. When the couple separated the young mother gained full-time employment and she put her study on hold in order to provide for her family. At this point, Ngaro was in a position to exit Whānau Ora. However, during the year another incident occurred, causing the family to seek refuge at a family member’s house.

Ngaro re-engaged with Whānau Ora and her Kaiārahi who helped her access support from Work and Income and pay off her rent arrears, as she was no longer employed. With the support and encouragement from the Kaiārahi, she decided to pursue her fashion designer dreams. Ngaro’s true talents were revealed when she was selected to have her fashion line included at New Zealand Fashion Week. She won a prestigious award, as an up-and-coming Pacific fashion designer. In the following weeks, she was unable to meet the demand for the orders she was receiving.

Whānau Ora supported Ngaro to turn her passion into a career, through the purchase of a sewing machine, materials, patterns and a driver’s licence to kick start her career. She also saved enough money to legally register her business and copyright her designs. Her children are now attending early child education while she works from home. Collaboration with other services such as Oranga Tamariki and Housing New Zealand has assisted the family to remain stable and safe.

Healthy families – ‘Weight loss leads to further gains’

A Samoan family of eight, with six children at primary school, were living in an over-crowded home with two other families when they engaged with Whānau Ora. The children were fully immunised, however, the family were behind with rent due to the mother (the sole income earner) suffering an injury and requiring surgery before she could return to work.

The mother needed to fund 20 per cent of her surgery and her husband was not working due to health issues and being very overweight (he was 190 kilograms). The children were not getting their regular health checks, including dental appointments, and the parents were not getting yearly health checks. The family were in extreme financial hardship and struggled to provide the basic needs for their family.

Kaiārahi supported the family by paying their rental arrears and the 20 per cent of the wife’s surgery so she could return to work. In line with the family’s health plans, a grant was provided to pay for doctors visits to ensure the family maintained regular health checks and immunisation checks for the children. The family enrolled with the Pacific Health Clinic and Sports Canterbury, who together with the Green Prescription worked on an exercise plan with this family.

The mother has now recovered following surgery and works part-time as a teacher’s aide. Her husband has lost 20 kilograms and has gained full-time employment which has boosted the family’s income. The family exercise every Saturday at their local community hall, they enjoy dancing at home and going for walks around the neighbourhood. All the children have been enrolled in dental services and have regular health check-ups. Whānau Ora intervened at the right time to give this family an opportunity to turn things around – they are very grateful and have continued to follow their budget and health plans.

Contribution to Whānau Ora Outcomes

During the 2017/18 year Pasifika Futures engaged with a total of 5,973 whānau. 3,175 were supported through innovative and community based initiatives, and 2,798 were assisted through Kaiārahi support for whānau.

Mātauranga – Te Reo/ Broadcasting

Empowering whānau to nurture te reo and tikanga Māori

This funding supports Māori language, culture and identity, with a specific focus on the use of te reo Māori.

This encompasses support for: te reo Māori and broadcasting entities; community-focused events such as Matariki, kapa haka, māra kai and wānanga; and resources for the Oranga Marae partnership project with the Department of Internal Affairs.

This area also includes Ministerial oversight of statutory bodies and Crown Entities, specifically Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori, Te Māngai Pāho, Māori Television Service and Te Mātāwai.

	Māori Television (Whakaata Māori)	$19,264,000
Focus	Provided over 7,900 hours of television broadcasting; hundreds of hours of language-learning content on demand; and ensured over 70 per cent of its primetime content was in te reo Māori to protect and promote te reo and tikanga Māori. See more details in the Māori Television Service Annual Report 2017/18.
Highlights	The launch of High Definition transmission across Aotearoa; and the airing of the flagship documentary series Artefact which explores different taonga and their historical and cultural significance.

Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori – National Māori Language Revitalisation (Whakarauora Reo mō te Motu)

$5,704,000

Focus

Provided support for national events, research, and te reo Māori resources to give effect to te reo Māori as a living language of Aotearoa New Zealand. See more details in Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori Annual Report 2017/18.

Highlights

The highest ever participation for Te Wiki o te Reo Māori; the establishment of a language planning and evaluation centre; and initiation of language planning across public and private sector organisations.

Te Mātāwai – Family, Tribal and Community Māori Language Revitalisation (Whakarauora Reo mō te Whānau, Hapū, Iwi me te Hapori)

$14,948,000

Focus

Developed strategies, commissioned research, and provided funding for te reo Māori initiatives at a whānau and community level in order to support the revitalisation of te reo Māori. See more details in Te Mātāwai Annual Report 2017/18.

Highlights

The finalisation of the Maihi Māori (Māori language strategy for whānau, hapū, and iwi Māori); establishing Pae Motuhake to support applications and administer funding at a community level; and the development of regional (iwi cluster) language plans.

Te Ao Māori – Māori Development Fund

Te Tahua Whanaketanga Māori (the Fund) supports whānau, hapū and iwi to identify and achieve their aspirations through improving social, cultural and economic outcomes. The broad focus allows investment to be targeted across a wide variety of outcomes and provides discretion for new and emerging areas of focus.

Investment is targeted at achieving a variety of outcomes in the area of te ao Māori, whanaungatanga, and marae-based wānanga; and co funding Oranga Marae with the Department of Internal Affairs.

Specific allocations within the Fund are targeted to achieve te ao Māori outcomes in the following areas:

- cultural events, including Matariki and kapa haka;
- māra kai – community garden initiatives; and
- physical infrastructure and cultural development aspirations for marae through the Oranga Marae partnership.

Supporting te ao Māori and whanaungatanga, and marae-based wānanga

A strong and thriving cultural identity is essential to sustainable development, strong communities and the achievement of Māori aspirations. It provides a strong sense of ownership and self-determination. The Fund has a strong focus on supporting initiatives and projects at a community, regional and national level that promote te reo me ngā tikanga Māori, and awareness of traditional knowledge and history.

During 2017/18, the Fund supported more than 270 community-based te ao Māori events and initiatives across the country, including:

- 70 Matariki local community celebrations around the country to celebrate the Māori New Year, such as festivals, art exhibitions and wānanga;
- 57 māra kai projects, supporting community-based gardens and encouraging community connections, healthy eating initiatives and increased knowledge of traditional gardening techniques;
- support for regional and national kapa haka and manu kōrero initiatives at primary, secondary school and senior levels;
- recording and preserving local knowledge, such as the stories and history of Māori Battalion veterans and awareness of traditional Māori weaving; and
- initiatives supporting the use of te reo and tikanga such as the Reweti Marae Trust Board's project to increase the use of te reo and traditional skills amongst Ngāti Whātua members.

Te Ao Māori Initiatives

projects supporting a thriving cultural identity and community-based activities such as Matariki celebrations, te reo Māori and traditional knowledge wānanga initiatives supported to build capability, including support for strategies that aim to revitalise te reo in local communities

An example of māra kai project is the Rotorua-based 'My Backyard Garden Project'.

My Backyard Garden Project – reconnecting whānau to Papatūānuku

More than fifty families and eight kindergartens in Rotorua are learning about māra kai and providing themselves with fresh, regular kai.

Feedback from whānau indicates that allergies are already reducing and they are feeling an ease on their weekly shopping spend after not having to buy vegetables from the supermarket anymore.

Through an online campaign, whānau who were interested in learning about māra kai, and increasing their knowledge of traditional gardening techniques, were invited to register for the My Backyard Garden Project. The project took off at the Rotorua Youth Centre.

The project has helped Rotorua whānau to provide themselves with fresh and nutritional kai, and to develop the skills to grow and cultivate their own vegetables.

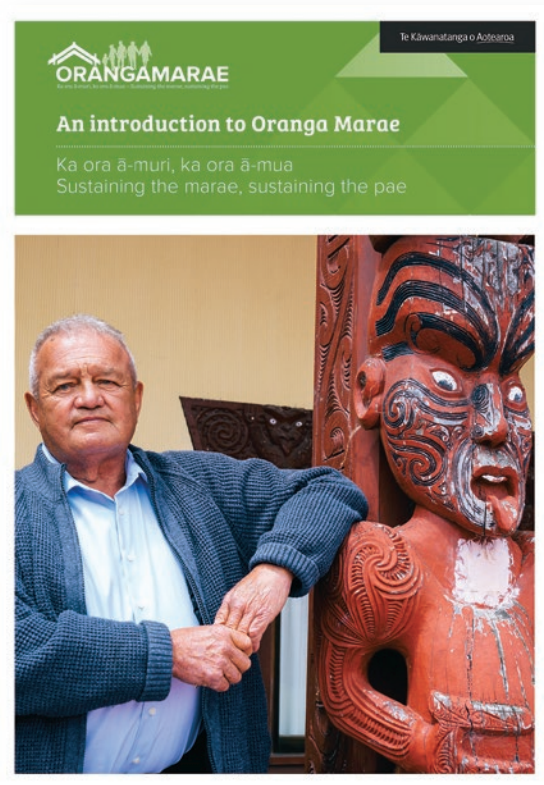

Under the guidance of māra kai expert, Te Rangikaheke Kiripatea (Ngāti Ūenukūpako), the project has also done a tremendous amount to reconnect people back to Papatūānuku.

Oranga Marae

The Oranga Marae initiative, launched in May 2018, brought together funding from Te Puni Kōkiri, through the Māori Development Fund, and the Lottery Grants Board to support whānau, hapū and iwi Māori seeking to restore, rebuild, and revive their marae. This new approach encourages marae whānau to come together to prioritise their aspirations for their marae.

Oranga Marae funds:

- planning to help marae document their aspirations and delivery plans;
- technical support where specialist advice is required by a marae for capital or cultural development; and
- capital works, cultural activities and other requirements to help revitalise marae.

Funding decisions on capital works and cultural activities are made quarterly, by the Oranga Marae Committee with the first round of decisions made in June 2018. Four marae received funding in the first round for refurbishment and infrastructure projects with a combined total of $3.65 million.

Recipients of Māori Development Fund (Te Ao Māori)

The recipients listed below received Māori Development funding for initiatives with a Te Ao Māori focus in the 2017/18 financial year¹⁰. Please note that in some instances projects may span multiple financial years, which explains the difference between approved and actual spend for the year.

¹⁰ The total of the amounts in this table will not reconcile with the amounts reported in the Statement of Service Performance at the end of this report. The amounts in this table represent cash payments made during the 2017/18 financial year (1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018) while the amounts in the Statement of Service Performance are compiled using accrual based accounting policies.

Te Reo Māori and Broadcasting Entities

The statutory bodies and Crown Entities that receive non-departmental funding from Vote Māori Development include: Te Māngai Pāho (TMP) the Māori Television Service (MTS); Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori (TTW) and Te Mātāwai.

The Minister for Māori Development is the Minister responsible for TMP, TTW i te Reo Māori and Te Mātāwai. The Minister of Finance and Minister for Māori Development have joint responsibility for the MTS.

Te Māngai Pāho – Māori Broadcast and Streamed Services (Pāpāho Reo me ngā Kaupapa Māori)

This appropriation of $58.759 million principally supports TMP and its activities. TMP was established in 1993, under the Broadcasting Act 1989, to promote Māori language and culture. The legal name is Te Reo Whakapuaki Irirangi.

During 2017/18 funding was provided for 21 iwi radio stations; over 1,600 hours of Māori television programming, including new media initiatives; and original music production to support all New Zealanders in experiencing te reo and tikanga Māori. Details of activities and achievements of TMP are reported separately in its Annual Report.

Highlights over the period include the release of Ahikāroa which is a web-based drama programme that achieved over 140,000 views; and the development of a new Māori broadcasting strategy in collaboration with the Māori broadcasting sector.

Māori Television (Whakaata Māori)

This appropriation of $19.264 million supports MTS and its activities. MTS was established under its own Act in 2003 to promote Māori language and culture through the provision of a Māori television service.

During 2017/18 funding was provided for more than 7,900 hours of television broadcasting; and hundreds of hours of language-learning content on demand. MTS also ensured that over 70 per cent of its primetime content was in te reo Māori to protect and promote te reo and tikanga Māori. Details of activities and achievements of MTS are reported separately in its Annual Report.

Highlights over the period include the launch of High Definition transmission across Aotearoa; and the airing of flagship documentary series Artefact which explores different taonga and their historical and cultural significance.

Te Taura Whiri i te Reo Māori – National Māori Language Revitalisation (Whakarauora Reo mō te Motu)

This appropriation of $5.704 million supports TTW and its activities. It was established in 1987 by the Māori Language Act 1987 to promote the Māori language.

During 2017/18 the appropriation provided funding for te reo Māori revitalisation including support for events, research, and resources to give effect to te reo Māori as a living language of Aotearoa New Zealand. Details of activities and achievements of TTW are reported separately in its Annual Report.

Highlights over the period include the highest ever participation for Te Wiki o Te Reo Māori; the establishment of a language planning and evaluation centre; and the initiation of language planning across public and private sector organisations.

Te Mātāwai – Family, Tribal and Community Māori Language Revitalisation (Whakarauora Reo mō te Whānau, Hapū, Iwi me te Hapori)

This appropriation of $14.817 million supports Te Mātāwai and its activities to develop Māori language initiatives. Te Mātāwai was established following the enactment of Te Ture mō te Reo Māori in April 2016. The funding also supports the operating costs and community-level te reo Māori research. In 2017/18, an additional $131,000 was provided through this appropriation for the disestablishment of Te Pūtahi Paoho.

During 2017/18, the appropriation supported the revitalisation of te reo Māori through developing te reo Māori strategies, commissioning research, and providing funding for te reo Māori initiatives at a whānau and community level. Details of activities and achievements of Te Mātāwai are reported separately in its Annual Report.

Highlights over the period include the finalisation of the Maihi Māori (Māori language strategy for whānau, hapū, and iwi Māori); establishing Pae Motuhake to support applications and administer funding at a community level; and the development of regional (iwi cluster) language plans.

Kāinga – Māori Housing

Improving homes and communities

This funding supports whānau to live in safe, secure and healthy homes, as well as recognising the importance of whānau living in functional and supportive environments and communities.

Kāinga goals are the building block to healthier whānau, who are better positioned to explore other development opportunities. These goals, implemented through the Māori Housing Network, strengthen whānau and communities, not only by improving housing, but also by providing opportunities to learn new skills, providing employment, improving health and income, building financial capability, while working towards intergenerational wellbeing.

Funding Portfolio

The funding portfolio consists of two separate funding streams:

	Kāinga – Māori Housing	$21,060,000
	Māori Housing (Te Kōtuitui Hanga Whare mō ngā Māori)	$21,060,000
Focus	Funding supported improving whānau and Māori housing outcomes, including urgent repairs; affordable rental housing; and developing whānau housing capability.
Highlights	Supported over 270 whānau homes to be repaired; five new rental homes on papakāinga; and funded six transitional home projects.
	Pathways to Home Ownership (Te Ara Mauwhare) (multi-year appropriation)	$9,000,000¹¹
Focus	Funding provided to support whānau home ownership pathway initiatives.
Highlights	Proposals from seven rūpū selected for co-design of potential trials of innovative approaches in developing pathways to home ownership for low- and median-income whānau. Developed a programme to build financial capability of whānau ready for home ownership. The programme was jointly developed by Te Puni Kōkiri and the Commission for Financial Capability.

¹¹ This multi-year appropriation is not included in the total non-departmental funding allocation for 2017/18.

Te Kōtuitui Hanga Whare mō ngā Māori (Māori Housing Network)

The focus of the Māori Housing Network (the Network) on whānau housing is part of broader aspirations to improve the health of tamariki, achieve economic security and self-reliance, and strengthen links with whenua and whakapapa within communities. There is a strong emphasis on Māori-led housing solutions which encourages innovation to help achieve better housing outcomes for whānau, hapū and iwi.

Improving housing outcomes is addressed through funding:

- affordable rental homes for whānau on papakāinga;
- community-led housing repairs;
- building Māori capability on housing issues; and
- identifying opportunities for partnership with whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori organisations.

In 2017/18, improving housing outcomes for Māori was supported by a funding allocation of $21.060 million delivered through the Network for work on urgent repairs, affordable rental housing, whānau housing capability and transitional housing.

Budget 2018 decisions also saw a further $15 million set aside, in contingency, for papakāinga and community-led housing repairs in the 2018/19 financial year.

Overall $21.496 million of investments were approved in 2017/18. Due to the realities around housing activities and the timing of approvals, some projects span financial years, with actual funding expended in 2017/18 being $18.991 million.

Housing Repairs

Good quality housing, that is warm, dry and secure, can support whānau to improve their health and provide overall stability and security.

Improving the quality of housing for whānau remained a key focus for the Network during 2017/18, through the Networks continued support of community-led housing repair programmes, to address essential repairs to whānau-owned homes. Demand was high, with funding approved for repairs to 271 homes, compared to 144 for 2016/17. It is expected that demand will continue to increase in coming years. A $15 million contingency fund in Budget 2018 will be available to support the increased repair volumes.

Overall, $10.036 million was approved for the repair programme for 2017/18. The following graph shows funding approved for repairs by location.

What repairs mean for whānau

During the 2017/18 year Te Puni Kōkiri commissioned an independent evaluation of the impacts of housing investments by the Network, since its launch in July 2015.

The findings in the evaluation report concluded that 94 per cent of whānau and rōpū surveyed who received a grant for housing repairs believed the Network had increased the number of whānau living in safer, drier and healthier homes. Repairs undertaken included roof repairs, fixing leaks, repairing and replacing windows and fixing holes in walls and floors.

The report also noted that the Network meets a critical funding gap, given there are very limited, or no, funding alternatives for whānau to repair homes.

The Network focuses on working with whole communities to ensure holistic support for whānau. An example is Te Pou Oranga o Whakatōhea (an Ōpōtiki Māori service provider), with support from Te Puni Kōkiri, is helping whānau complete long overdue and urgent repairs to their homes. As outlined in the following case study, this has resulted in what whānau consider to be life-changing impacts.

Repairs provide relief before winter – Te Pou Oranga o Whakatōhea

Whānau in Ōpōtiki are now better prepared for a warm, healthy winter following repairs to their homes.

‘If you saw the homes before – rusted roofs, wet bedroom walls, mould and holes in the walls and floors. Often mokopuna living with their grandparents were too embarrassed to invite their friends over home,’ said Ian Linton (Tūhoe), Te Pou Oranga o Whakatōhea Manager.

‘Now whānau are overjoyed with the results. They are happy walking around their homes and can go from room to room with no water running through the roof or down the walls. It is a huge relief especially in the lead up to the winter months.’

The Māori Housing Network provided funding to repair 13 houses, following an earlier assessment of 35 homes.

Urgent and essential repairs to the homes included roof replacements, wiring, glass and structural improvements.

Reflecting the emphasis on holistic support, the project also provided opportunities for whānau to attend healthy home workshops, to learn how to do basic maintenance jobs including preparation for painting, wall plastering, and fixing taps, doors and window handles.

Papakāinga development

Papakāinga projects supported through the Network use housing as a vehicle to contribute to broader whānau development outcomes. Papakāinga also contribute to broader community and regional economic development, offering business and employment opportunities for Māori.

Working with whānau and rūpū

The Network supports a range of activities that contribute to the development of papakāinga as outlined below:

- provision of papakāinga workshops to improve whānau and rūpū knowledge of the steps to developing a papakāinga;
- access to one-on-one support for whānau on their home ownership journey (for example, assistance through the Kāinga Whenua Loan process);
- project feasibility grants that support Māori collectives to plan and prepare for their papakāinga. This includes engaging the necessary technical expertise to progress through the design and consenting process, so a papakāinga is ‘shovel ready’ (that is, able to commence construction);

- provision of funds for infrastructure on Māori Land, such as power, water and roading. This is for individual home ownership and for affordable rental homes; and
- a contribution towards the construction costs of collectively-owned rental papakāinga.

In 2017/18, 14 rūpū were supported to plan for their papakāinga projects across the country. Following whānau planning and attending workshops, owners and trustees are in a better position to engage professional services and technical advice. At the end of this feasibility stage, the rūpū will have all the necessary plans, approved designs and consents to enable construction to commence.

Since its launch in July 2015, the Network has contributed to projects by Māori land trusts and others that will result in 68 new affordable rental homes on papakāinga.

Whareponga papakāinga – The Legacy of Materoa

Through a papakāinga project in Te Tairāwhiti, whānau have built a future that connects them to their whenua and supported local trade training and businesses along the way.

With funding support, the Proprietors of Pāhītauā and Other Blocks Incorporated (PPOBI) have built four new affordable rentals, as part of a six-home papakāinga.

The papakāinga journey took several years of effort starting in early 2012, when the whānau attended papakāinga workshops, followed by funding to support the rōpū undertake a feasibility study in mid-2013.

PPOBI wanted to support and invest locally in Te Tairāwhiti. This meant seeking advice and interest from local building industry trades and services, and providing skills and learning opportunities through the Eastern Institute of Technology Carpentry course in Ruatoria.

The rōpū submitted a proposal for papakāinga development support in December 2015, and the Network contributed funding towards a four-home papakāinga with infrastructure to support a further two homes. Construction commenced in April 2016, and the papakāinga was officially opened in December 2017.

Self-sufficiency and interdependent living informed and future-proofed the whole development. The location meant independent and off-grid systems for power, water supply and wastewater systems were a necessity.

It is intended to re-establish the original orchard, have communal māra kai and areas beyond the homes for holding livestock.

Capability workshops

During the year the Network focussed on developing Māori capability around housing issues to support iwi and whānau in realising papakāinga opportunities. This included supporting community-focused papakāinga workshops in Te Tai Tokerau, Waikato Waiariki and Ikaroa Rāwhiti, providing information and support to whānau as they progress their papakāinga aspirations.

In Te Tai Tokerau, 12 workshops were held in Whangārei, Kaikohe, Kaeo and Kaitāia with more than 25 people attending each workshop. Seventy people attended four workshops held in the Eastern Bay of Plenty, and monthly workshops with 20 plus attendees were held in the Hawke's Bay region. Attendees included local iwi and representatives from district councils, Māori Land Court, banking and budget services.

Transitional Housing

The Network worked with whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori communities to support solutions for whānau who are experiencing the greatest need, such as homelessness.

Te Puni Kōkiri also works with a number of government agencies, including the Ministry of Social Development, the agency with primary responsibility for transitional housing, to ensure the housing needs of whānau are understood.

The following Kōkōhīnau Marae Papakāinga Trust case study is a good example of collaboration between government agencies (Te Puni Kōkiri and the Ministry for Business, Innovation and Employment) to meet temporary housing needs for Māori.

The dream of home ownership in Waikato

Like all young couples, high-school sweethearts Sally and Te Punakai Waikai dreamed of owning their own home. They began saving but it would be a long path filled with obstacles before they got to moving day.

Firstly, house prices in the Waikato region 'went through the roof'. Despite their parents' willingness to put their own homes up as collateral, Sally and Te Punakai knew it was not realistic. The dream remained distant.

In 2016, Te Punakai found out about papakāinga funding from the Māori Housing Network at Te Puni Kōkiri. He and Sally went to a workshop run by Te Puni Kōkiri with support from Waikato-Tainui, Housing New Zealand and the Waikato Regional Council. After that, new housing possibilities were imaginable and the couple regained hope.

The first thing they had to do was find some land. The block that Sally and Te Punakai liked was whānau land, specifically Māori land, being leased to a local farmer.

'To build there we had to get a licence to occupy and we had to get that from the Komakorau 384 Ahuwhenua Trust – the body that governs the land.'

However there was only one surviving Trustee so the Trust needed to be re-established and new Trustees elected. The detailed Māori Land Court process to do that was a steep learning curve but the couple remained determined and eventually got a licence to occupy.

Next? Securing a home loan, finding a builder and tackling the consent process. This took more than one whole year. Sally and Te Punakai had put away considerable savings but banks do not loan for new home builds on Māori land. Their only option was a Kāinga Whenua loan from Kiwibank which Sally says has strict pre-approval and lending criteria.

Their first application in February 2017 was declined. They were stood down for a mandatory six-month period. When they re-applied they were successful.

'The more we got knocked back, the more determined we became. We just kept thinking about our tamariki – we're doing this for them so they can have a better future.'

Te Puni Kōkiri helped out with some infrastructure costs. Soon the whānau was ready to lodge their application for building consent with the Waikato Regional Council.

More and more financial and logistical obstacles arose. It was a stressful time and by then Sally was pregnant with their third child. Eventually they progressed and were ready to find a builder. The couple could finally shoo the cows off the section.

Building started in March 2018 and Sally and Te Punakai welcomed their new baby three months later.

'If we can do it, anyone can. You've just got to want it more than anything and be prepared to do whatever it takes.'

'But now that we're in the house, the whole experience has shown us how resilient we are. The future holds a lot of promise for us and our babies, and we're excited about it! This is us. We're in it for life!'

Te Ara Mauwhare (Pathways to Home Ownership)

Te Ara Mauwhare¹² was established through Budget 2017 funding of $9 million, over a three-year period, to identify, trial and evaluate innovative approaches to assist low- to median-income whānau Māori to own their own homes. According to the 2013 Census, only 28 per cent of Māori adults own their own home compared to 50 per cent of the total population.

During 2017/18, Te Puni Kōkiri received a wide range of proposals from rōpū interested in Te Ara Mauwhare. Following assessment, proposals from seven rōpū were selected for co-design of potential trials. The first trial with He Korowai Trust in Kaitiāia (outlined in the following case study), was announced on 1 June 2018¹³.

The models being trialled will include variations of shared equity, rent-to-own and co-housing models. The trials will be closely monitored and evaluated to see which models work effectively for both whānau and rōpū, and can be replicated more widely to move more low- to median-income whānau Māori onto a pathway to home ownership.

All trials under Te Ara Mauwhare will include a programme to build the financial capability of whānau to achieve their housing aspirations. The programme was developed jointly by Te Puni Kōkiri and the Commission for Financial Capability. The training of facilitators who will deliver the programme commenced in September 2018.

¹² Referred to as He Huarahi ki te Whare in the 2017/18 estimates.

¹³ The other six trials are at different stages of co-design between the rōpū, Te Puni Kōkiri and other government agencies, with announcements expected before the end of 2018.

He Korowai Trust

He Korowai Trust, a Māori service provider in Kaitiāia, is testing an affordable rent-to-own model that enables whānau to not just put a roof over their heads, but eventually own the house.

This trial, supported by funding through Te Ara Mauwhare, will help provide an economic base for whānau from which to grow further and engage more positively in the community and wider society.

The trial includes a perpetual right to occupy whenua in the Whare Ora papakāinga, owned by the Trust. The site is alcohol, drug and violence free. All whānau will complete a financial capability-building programme and will receive ongoing budgeting assistance, early childhood and medical care, counselling and other support.

He Korowai Trust has an intimate knowledge and understanding of the real housing needs of its people, coupled with a demonstrated commitment to get whānau into safe, healthy, and secure homes. Initiatives like this are vital for the future development of whānau.

Te Puni Kōkiri is collaborating with iwi and rōpū like He Korowai Trust to see how Government, Māori and the wider community can work together with whānau to help them towards home ownership.

Whenua – Māori Land

Enabling Māori land owners to engage with and realise aspirations for their whenua

This funding supports land owner aspirations to connect actively with their whenua for cultural, social and sustainable economic advancement.

This is achieved through support for researching land-use options, as well as investments in agriculture, horticulture, apiculture, forestry and energy land use.

This area includes Ministerial oversight of the Māori Trustee which administers and grows Māori land assets.

Image: The Omaio Kiwifruit Development Project enabled shareholders of Te Rau Aroha Limited to examine the whenua for potential conversion from maize to kiwifruit production.

Kōtuitui Te Ture Whenua (Whenua Māori Fund)

Land provides both an ancestral connection and a platform for potential economic opportunity. It is critical that Māori are able to realise the full economic potential of their tangible and intangible assets while maintaining their protection for future generations.

Māori land comprises 1.42 million hectares, approximately five per cent of New Zealand's land mass, but much of it – up to 80 per cent – is believed to be underperforming or underutilised.

Improved performance and productivity of Māori land will offer increased income for owners, their whānau, regions and the New Zealand economy. Significant areas of Māori land face challenges because of their remote location and, in some cases because they are landlocked.

Objectives and Achievements

The Whenua Māori Fund facilitates initiatives that improve Māori land productivity. It focuses on tangible, on-the-ground initiatives that can grow the economic performance of the whenua for the benefit of the owners. Its objectives are to:

- support Māori landowners to understand how to utilise whenua Māori, as they see fit, and to lay groundwork for productivity improvements or commercial development;
- increase opportunity for whānau, hapū and iwi organisations to work collectively, collaboratively and cooperatively with landowners;

- improve the performance and productivity of Māori land to lead to income-related opportunities that benefit the wider community; and
- support a thriving Māori economy with high performing people, assets and enterprises.

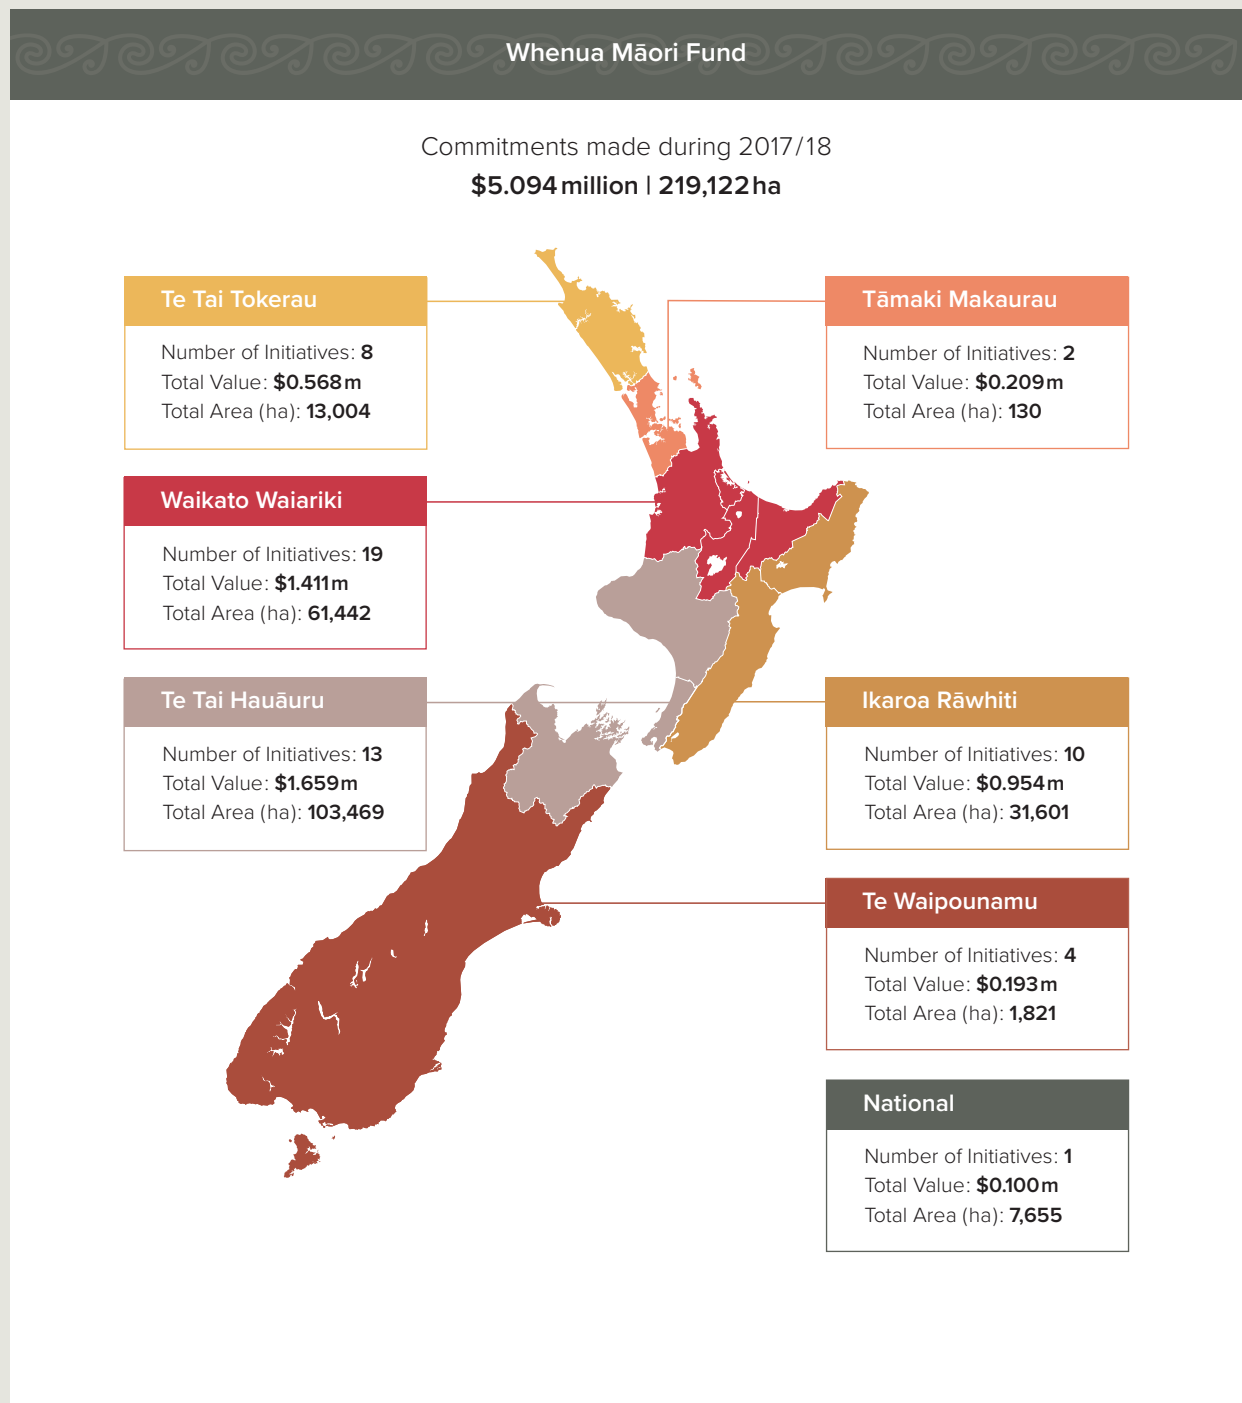

This funding enables Māori land owners and trustees to support their existing operations, diversify or prepare for new opportunities. Achieving improved land productivity offers better returns for owners, their whānau and local communities, and the wider New Zealand economy.

During the 2017/18 financial year a total of $5.094 million was committed from the Fund to support 57 projects encompassing a total of 219,122 hectares of land from Northland to Stewart Island.

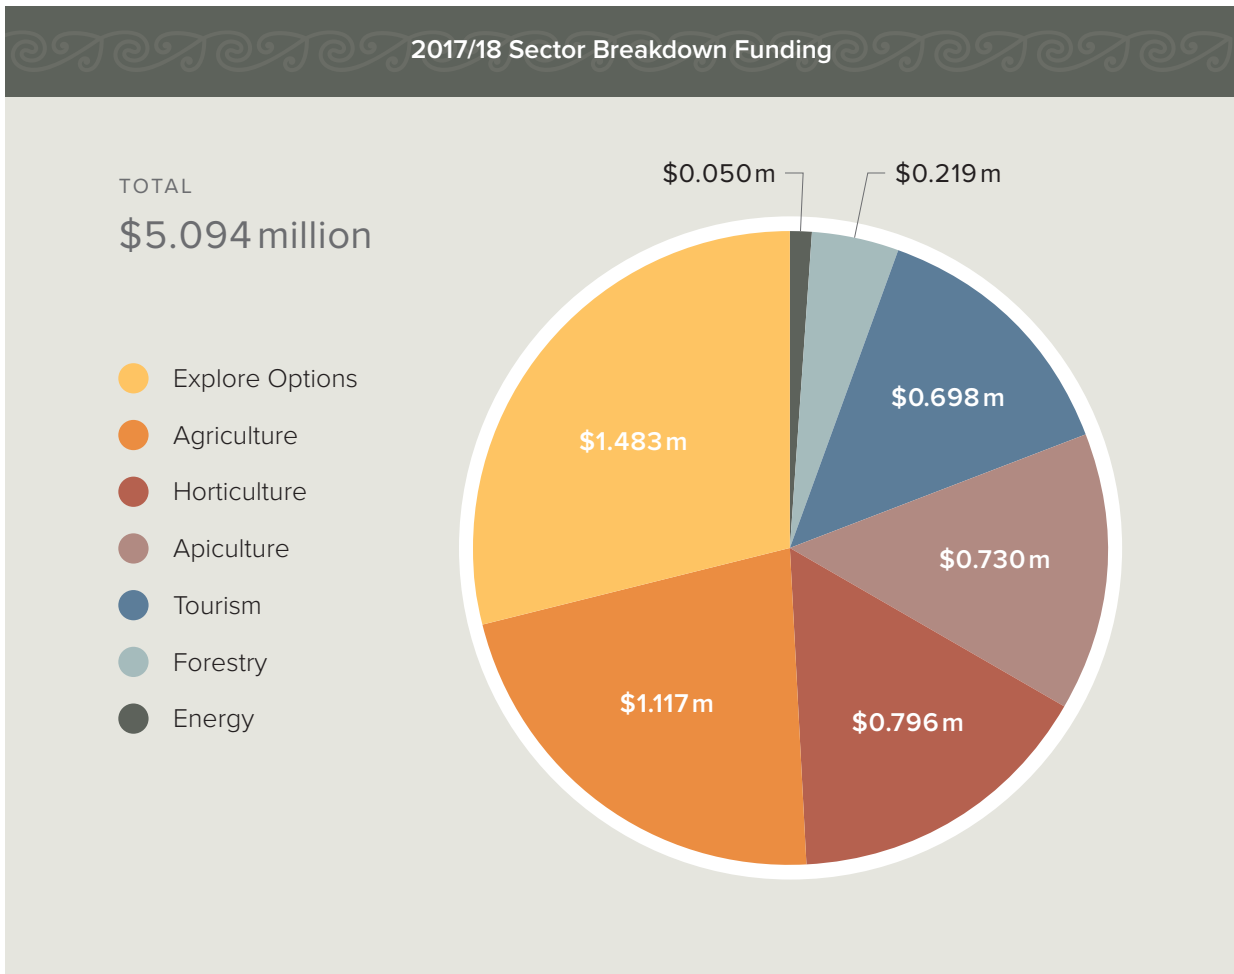

Government priorities for regional economic growth, including the Provincial Growth Fund and One Billion Trees initiative, create significant opportunities for Māori land owners. To help realise these opportunities, Te Puni Kōkiri has worked closely with fund applicants at the regional level to develop robust proposals to both align with these wider priorities, and support whānau aspirations for their whenua.

Funding Distribution

The map below shows where Whenua Māori funding was allocated by region.

The following graph summarises how funding was allocated by sector.

An example of how the Whenua Māori Fund supports Māori land owners is provided in a case study on the following page.

A forestry collective initiative in the Far North that seeks to create jobs for whānau in small settlements

With high rates of Māori land underperforming, Te Tai Tokerau Forestry Collective is an example of how the Whenua Māori Fund, with the support of the Ministry for Primary Industries, North Tec, and Ngāti Hine (Puke Puke Rau), are able to assist Māori land owners to improve the productivity of Māori land, and increase skills and employment in the Te Tai Tokerau region.

The Collective represents a group of Māori land trusts in Northland, who, through collaboration with Te Puni Kōkiri and partners, are enhancing their future in forestry, to maximise returns they receive on their Māori freehold land. This initiative is part of a Māori-led forestry strategy which is trialling a prototype that attracts new investors through a secured supply chain.

A key to the Collective's success in achieving its outcomes of increasing the productive use of Māori-owned assets and employment and skills in the region is its relationships and the value of whanaungatanga. It creates a platform for Māori to use their collective strength to get some influence, whether it is regional or potentially national.

The collective aims to grow its membership of Trusts and Incorporations, as it builds its capability and capacity to understand the forestry sector, and potentially pave the way for a Māori future in forestry.

Māori Trustee Functions (Te Tumu Paeroa)

The Māori Trustee is listed as a schedule 4 organisation under the Public Finance Act 1989 and was established under the Māori Trustee Act 1953. Since 2009 the Māori Trustee Organisation has been a stand-alone entity. Now called Te Tumu Paeroa, it works with whānau to develop their land.

This funding is provided to the Māori Trustee to administer, grow and develop Māori land resources. More details are available in Te Tumu Paeroa Annual Report 2017/18.

The Māori Trustee works to build land owners' participation in decision making in order to protect and see more effective utilisation of Māori land.

Pakihi – Economic Development

A focus on new and sustainable ways to lift whānau, hapū and iwi Māori prosperity

The purpose of Pakihi is to provide practical support for whānau, entrepreneurs and businesses to grow a more productive, sustainable, and innovative Māori economy, that delivers prosperity for Māori and opportunities for rangatahi. This is achieved through investments to enable Māori to investigate business options, share knowledge, build capability and develop an international presence through exports.

The funding portfolio includes Ministerial oversight of support to New Zealand Māori Tourism which promotes and develops Māori tourism capability and opportunities, as well as support for Māori organisations such as the Māori Women's Development Inc.

Whanaketanga Ohanga (Māori Economic Development)

Whanaketanga Ohanga (Māori economic development) is a multi-category appropriation focussed on promoting Māori economic development. The appropriation has two key focus areas:

- Ka Hao (the Māori Digital Technology Development Fund); and
- New Zealand Māori Tourism (which reports separately in the New Zealand Māori Tourism Annual Report).

Ka Hao: Māori Digital Technology Development Fund

Ka Hao provides funding for Māori ICT development initiatives by supporting both Māori economic development, by encouraging Māori participation in the ICT sector (whether as employees or owners of digital technology businesses) and supporting access to Māori language and culture through ICT.

The overall objective of Ka Hao is to create high value jobs and opportunities that advance Māori in digital technologies. Funding priorities supporting this objective are:

- improving digital skills and pathways into digital technologies;
- growing digital technology businesses; and
- enhancing new Māori language and culture initiatives through digital technologies.

In 2016/17, Ka Hao approved funding for 20 applications to the value of $3.605 million. There were 16 projects completed during 2017/18, with four projects to be completed in 2018/19. These projects support outcomes that contribute to our overall objective, with some projects supporting more than one outcome as follows:

- 13 projects supporting improved pathways for Māori into the digital technology sector, increasing the skill level of Māori employed in the digital technology sector, and the number of Māori gaining digital technology skills;
- eight projects supporting the creation and growth of Māori-owned digital technology businesses, improving research and development activity, quality and capability in Māori digital technology, and supporting the use of emerging digital technology across the wider Māori economy; and
- one project supporting greater digitalisation of te reo Māori and culture content, and increasing the use and development of emerging digital technologies that enhance te reo Māori language and culture.

One funding round commenced in 2017/18 with applications to be confirmed and advanced in 2018/19. Te Puni Kōkiri supported several events around the country to showcase Ka Hao as part of Tech Week (19 to 27 May 2018). The organisers of Tech Week were keen to support events that showcase Māori technology entrepreneurs succeeding.

Marae tell their own stories through virtual reality

PointCloud Visualisation Ltd

Marae in the Wellington area have been using technology to scan their marae and create models that can be used as robust digital records of the marae structures.

PointCloud Visualisation Limited (PCV) has a unique software that can quickly and accurately (up to 1 mm) render large sets of digital data into 3D visuals or models. These 3D representations can then be experienced in virtual reality (VR).

Since receiving Te Puni Kōkiri Ka Hao funding support, PCV has been able to apply the technology to the scanning of marae, creating models that will stand as robust digital records of these structures.

Among the marae scanned were Te Tumu Herenga Waka (Victoria University of Wellington) and Waiwhetu in Lower Hutt. 'This was our opportunity to communicate our history through technology,' says Waiwhetu Marae Chairman, Kura Moeahu. 'Rather than sitting on the floor looking up, we could look directly at a particular design in the poupou, tukutuku or kōwhaiwhai panel through the 3D models to tell the story of our meeting house.'

Kura describes the experience of putting on the virtual reality goggles for the first time as 'mind blowing'. 'Instead of putting on goggles to go diving for kina you were diving for knowledge to fill up your mind. It was amazing.'

As part of a wider education programme, young Māori students (aged mostly between 13 to 17 years of age) were invited to learn first-hand how the 3D scanning operates. The students assisted with the scanning process, asked questions and gained technical insights from the staff who carried out the scanning of the marae.

'We know rangatahi Māori are early adopters of new and emerging technologies, and are incredibly savvy operators of those technologies; however, this hasn't transferred into seeing more Māori working in the technology industry. We want to help change that because we think innovation and technology are important for Māori to get into,' said Co-founder of PCV, Toko Kapea.

'When the time comes to fill new jobs we will welcome the Māori students to fill the positions that have been a part of the project,' said Toko.

Helping rangatahi get into the ‘digi tech’ space

Meaning ‘The Modern World’, Te Ao Hangarau formerly known as Digital Natives Aotearoa, is comprised of Ariki Creative, Māui Studios and Manu Media. Together they aim to learn and grow together in their respective specialist areas, while also developing learning opportunities and educational pathways, and fostering interest for digital technologies in other young Māori.

Creative lead for Ariki Creative, Hori Mataki, says ‘Te Ao Hangarau is paving the way for rangatahi to build off our shoulders to get into the ‘digi space’. We believe in sharing our skills with the community, using digital technology to help whānau and rangatahi, as well as leaving a legacy for other aspiring Māori digital creatives to follow, should they wish to pursue a career in the digital creative industry.’

The overarching vision for Te Ao Hangarau is to host rangatahi at digi-wānanga, and funnel those whose interest is ignited into tertiary education pathways. It also provides internship opportunities for them to grow experience and leverage existing relationships, to help them get employment in the digital creative industry.

Hori’s idea to form a collective of young Māori working in digital creative spaces started with a tono (invitation) from the Whānau Ora Commissioning Agency, Te Pūtahitanga o Te Waipounamu.

‘They wanted us to come up with some ideas on how we could help whānau interested in the digital technology space, so a group of about eight of us pulled together,’ says Hori.

Since its inception in 2015, the collective has grown organically receiving support through Whānau Ora, and more recently, through the Ka Hao Fund.

With Ka Hao funding, Te Ao Hangarau has taken on four interns and established two roles, a Kaiarahangarau (Career-path Manager) and an advocate to help formalise the Te Ao Hangarau pathway between tertiary and industry partners.

New Zealand Māori Tourism

The goal of New Zealand Māori Tourism (NZMT) is for Māori to take a leadership role in how visitors experience Aotearoa New Zealand. It seeks to achieve this by working with the Māori tourism sector, including whānau, hapū and iwi Māori enterprises, to contribute to the economy, to provide compelling visitor experiences, and to build commercial and cultural leadership.

NZMT's objectives are to:

- build the quality and capability of Māori tourism businesses;
- enhance the NZ Inc. brand;
- leverage relationships to create tourism, trade, and investment opportunities; and
- support the development of Māori tourism in the regions.

Vote Māori Development contributes to supporting Māori tourism through funding provided to NZMT, including an additional funding of $2.5 million per annum from Budget 2017. NZMT now receives $4.16 million per annum through Vote Māori Development.

The World Indigenous Tourism Summit was held at Waitangi in April 2018. The aim of the summit was to promote New Zealand as a tourist destination that safeguards the environment, indigenous values and culture, and authentically tells its historical stories.

The summit, organised by NZMT and supported by Te Puni Kōkiri and other partners, attracted over 300 participants from more than 20 countries such as Australia, Chile, Canada, Japan, Taiwan, France, Argentina, Tahiti, Samoa, the Cook Islands and the United States of America. This provided Māori businesses with a unique opportunity for learning, participating and networking.

Economic Development – Māori Development Fund

Te Tahua Whanaketanga Māori (the Fund) supports whānau, hapū and iwi to identify and achieve their aspirations through improving social, cultural and economic outcomes.

The Fund specifically supports improved economic outcomes through initiatives supporting regional development, whānau enterprise, and Māori businesses, which also have wider social outcomes for communities.

The broad focus of the Fund also allows investment to be targeted across a wide variety of outcomes and provides discretion for new and emerging areas of focus. These include opportunities under the newly established Provincial Growth Fund and contributes to our wider Pakihi and Whānau priorities.

During 2017/18, the Fund supported more than 140 projects and initiatives across the country. This investment can be broadly grouped into the following areas.

Economic Development

projects that supported Māori economic development strategies, business growth and tourism opportunities in local communities

Capability Building

initiatives supported to build capability, including governance training and organisational support

- supporting thriving enterprises – a productive, innovative economy through the Māori Business Growth initiative, and innovation through the He kai kei aku ringa fund; and
- growing Māori enterprise and upskilling the workforce.

Supporting Māori businesses

During 2017/18, the Māori Business Growth initiative supported around 60 Māori businesses with access to information, networking and provision of business advice, to help realise their growth potential. Support also included investment to help Māori businesses increase their business capability.

Other investment from the Fund included partnering with iwi to contribute to economic development in harmony with their values and the environment, such as investment with Te Kaahui o Rauru to support the Kaitahi Native Superfood Company, which took top honours at the biennial Fine Food New Zealand Innovation Awards in June 2018. The award recognised the innovative nature of their Frozen Superfood Smoothy Droplets, used to make a unique smoothy that includes traditional Māori ingredients such as kūmara, pūhā and kawakawa. Investment from the Fund supported research, feasibility pilots and development of partnerships to secure a supply of locally grown ingredients.

Growing Māori enterprise and upskilling the workforce

In the first round of the He kai kei aku ringa fund, established in 2017/18, five projects were funded to grow Māori enterprise and upskill the Māori workforce. These included:

- supporting around 400 rangatahi (years 9 to 11) to participate in the He kai kei aku ringa Rangatahi Business Challenge, run by Young Enterprise Trust. Events were held in Rotorua, Whangārei, Manawatū, Whakatāne and Hamilton during 2018;

- providing intensive post-employment pastoral support for 42 Māori Pasifika Trade Training programme graduates; and
- contributing to the delivery of the World Indigenous Business Forum 2018 to be held in Rotorua in October 2018.

Around 80 rangatahi also attended the Whangārei Business Challenge in June 2018. Young Enterprise Trust spokesperson Natania Katene commented:

‘What I love about the challenge is that we’re hearing from the tamariki about what they’re actually passionate about, and what they think a solution could be to a problem and realising that they can actually make it happen.’

The second round of the Hei kai kei aku ringa fund attracted more than 90 applicants, with contracts for the successful applicants due to start early in the 2018/19 financial year.

The Fund also supports broader regional economic development opportunities. This includes looking to partner with the Provincial Growth Fund (PGF) to maximise outcomes for Māori, and to invest alongside these projects to support wider community outcomes. Supporting Māori to access opportunities through broader regional investment, such as the PGF, will continue to be a core focus of investment over the coming years.

Tūhonohono – Community Support and Commitments

Vote: Māori Development in 2017/18 included funding of $13.833 million to fulfil a range of commitments in respect of iwi, rūpū and Māori entities. These commitments vary considerably in scope, size and duration, spanning support for operations and governance, as well as addressing historical grievances.

There is a mix of ongoing and one-off funding commitments.

Community and Māori Governance Organisations (Rōpū Whakahaere, Rōpū Hapori Māori)

This appropriation of $3.769 million focuses on supporting the work of community and Māori governance organisations.

Funding in this appropriation is allocated to:

- Māori Women’s Development Incorporated – funding support for administration and provision of mentoring and loan services to support Māori women in business. Some highlights across the year include: hosting the Māori Business Women Awards for the first time in ten years, which included six new award categories; approving new loans to assist Māori women and their whānau into business ventures; and continuation of the Te Wero Pakihi programme, which supports rangatahi to learn about business and how to become entrepreneurs;
- Māori Wardens’ Project – it is a contestable fund open to Māori Warden groups to support operating and administration costs, specialist training and national events;
- Tūranganui-a-Kiwa – funding to provide capability building for post-settlement entities;
- New Zealand Māori Council – funding to support the administration of the New Zealand Māori Council;
- Te Ariki Trust – funding to support the administration of Te Ariki Trust; and
- Ngāti Whātua Ōrākei Claims Settlement – funding of expenses incurred as required by clause 6 of the Ngāti Whātua Ōrākei Claims Settlement Act 2012.

Organisation	2017/18 $
Māori Women’s Development Incorporated	1,867,000
Māori Wardens’ Project	1,178,000
Tūranganui-ā-Kiwa	500,000
New Zealand Māori Council	196,000
Te Ariki Trust	21,000
Ngāti Whātua Ōrākei Claims Settlement	7,000

Administrative Expenses for Crown Land (Utu Whakahaere Whenua Karauna)

This appropriation of $49,000 is focused on funding for operating expenses associated with Crown-owned land administered by Te Puni Kōkiri under Part 2 of the Māori Affairs Restructuring Act 1989.

The most recent example of a payment under this appropriation was paying rates on the Crown block, Hautū 3F1 (situated at Tūrangi), a property that is Crown land administered by Te Puni Kōkiri under Part 2 of the Māori Affairs Restructuring Act 1989.

Taranaki Māori Trust Board (Poari Kaitiaki Māori o Taranaki)

This appropriation of $15,000 is to fund the payment of an annuity to the Taranaki Māori Trust Board, in accordance with section 9(2) of the Māori Trust Board Act 1955.

Crown Contribution to Parihaka Community (Takoha a te Karauna ki te Hapori o Parihaka)

This appropriation of $9 million is to contribute to development projects for the Parihaka Community and follow the signing of the deed of reconciliation with the Crown. During 2017/18 a draft funding agreement between the Crown and the Parihaka Papakāinga Trust (PPT) was prepared and consulted on. It is expected that the funding agreement will be finalised in 2018/19.

Ex-gratia Payment to Aorangi Māori (Utu Kāpeneheihana ki te Poari Kaitiaki Māori o Aorangi)

This appropriation of $1 million is to fund a one off ex-gratia payment to the Aorangi Māori Trust Board, in accordance with the Aorangi Trust Board Order.

Variance commentary

Home repair

During 2017/18, a total of 271 whānau homes were approved for repairs compared to an expected 110 to 130 home repairs. This was due to a large number of rūpū who had completed their repair assessment last financial year or early this year, and were now in a position to apply to the Māori Housing Network for the approval of their funding repairs.

Rental homes

In contributing to the increased supply of affordable housing for whānau, the Network funds infrastructure on Māori land (for homes being built by whānau, and for collectively-owned rental housing), and can contribute to the costs for construction of rental housing. Only five new affordable rental homes were approved to be built during the year, as most of the collectively owned rental homes projects on papakāinga that commenced in 2016/17 were still ongoing in 2017/18.

Capability and feasibility support

The Network received an increase in the demand for capability and feasibility reports for Māori land use, to support whānau who were building their own homes. As this measure is demand driven, it can be difficult to determine the level of activity from year to year.

Kōtuitui Te Ture Whenua (Te Ture Whenua Network)

Scope

This appropriation is limited to the purchase of interventions, tools and research to support initiatives which assist Māori land owners to improve the productivity of their land.

Purpose

The intention of this appropriation is to achieve improved facilitation opportunities for Māori land owners to achieve optimum utilisation of their land.

Financial

Whanaketanga Ohanga Māori (Māori Economic Development)

Scope

The overarching purpose of this appropriation is to promote Māori economic development.

Purpose

This appropriation is intended to achieve support for Māori digital technology development initiatives and to support progress towards Māori sustainably growing and developing their resources.

Expenditure

Expenditure incurred against this appropriation for the 2017/18 financial year is summarised in the following table:

2016/17 Actual $000	Expenditure	2017/18 Actual $000	2017/18 Revised Budget $000	2017/18 Budget $000
